Workshop on search engines defaults

31 January 2022 | 14:30-15:30 | Zoom

Organised by DuckDuckGo, Ecosia, Lilo, Qwant & Seznam

Guest speaker: Vanessa Turner, BEUC

DuckDuckGo, Ecosia, Lilo, Qwant and Seznam are delighted to invite you to an online workshop on search engine defaults on Monday, 31 January at 14:30 -15:30 CET.

In an interactive session with the audience, we will make a visual demonstration of the prevalence and importance of default settings for search engines and browsers in different OS environments. We will then move on to how solutions based on choice and easier switching can look like. Our basis for action has been established in our joint search engines letter on the DMA (October 2021).

This session is open to experts from EU national governments currently involved in the negotiations of the Digital Markets Act (Council attachés and officials from relevant administrations, including competition authorities). You are encouraged to forward the invitation to your colleagues.

Speakers:

- Guest: Vanessa Turner (BEUC), introductory speech on the importance of consumer choice for search engines and browsers (BEUC position).
- Presentation: Aurélien Mähl (DuckDuckGo), Sophie Dembinski (Ecosia), Sophie Bodin (Lilo), Corinne Lejbowicz (Qwant) and Agata Nowacka (Seznam).

Please register at this link by 28 January at noon.
